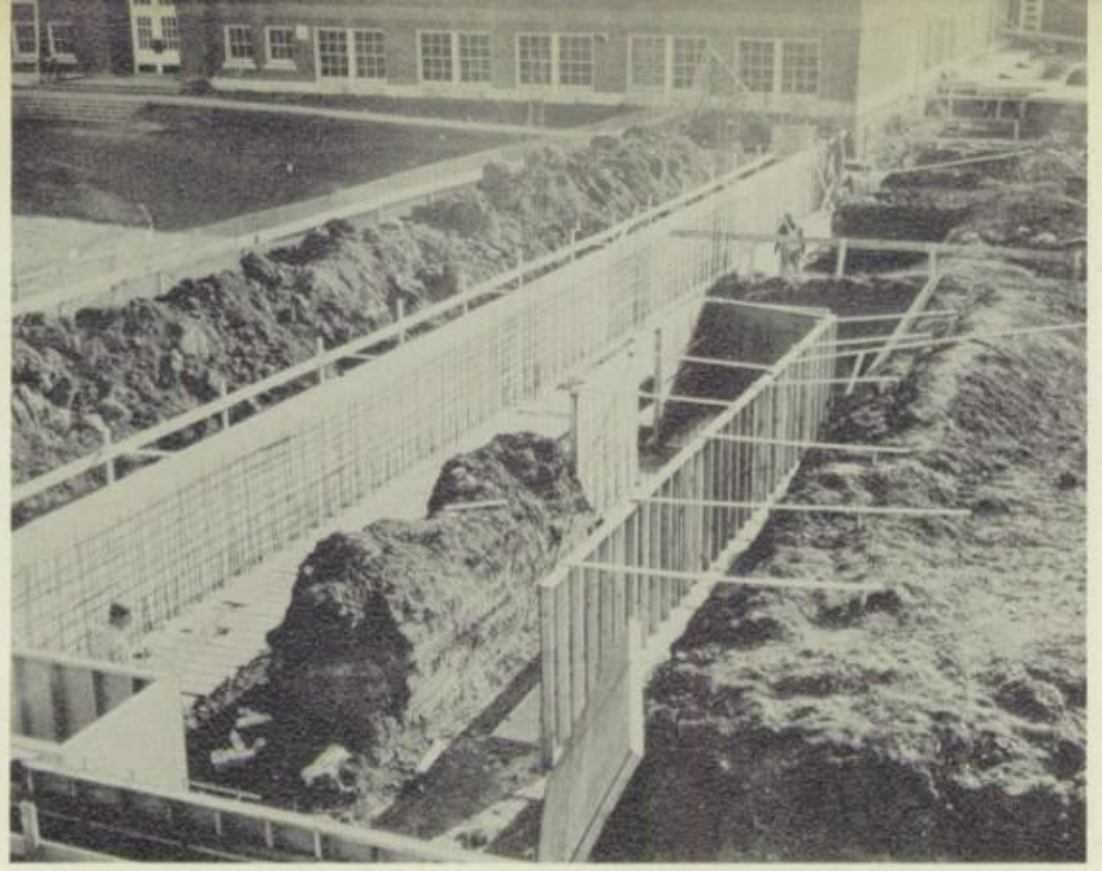
"The foundation of every state is the education of its youth."

-- Diogenes

1958 This year marks the beginning of a new era in the history of North Kansas City High School

With the addition of the Dagg building, we've become no longer a "one-building" but a "campus-type" school. This transition has taken several years.

We began by adding the Field House in 1950.



This fall we began construction of a new cafeteria and music department.

We watched them build and build

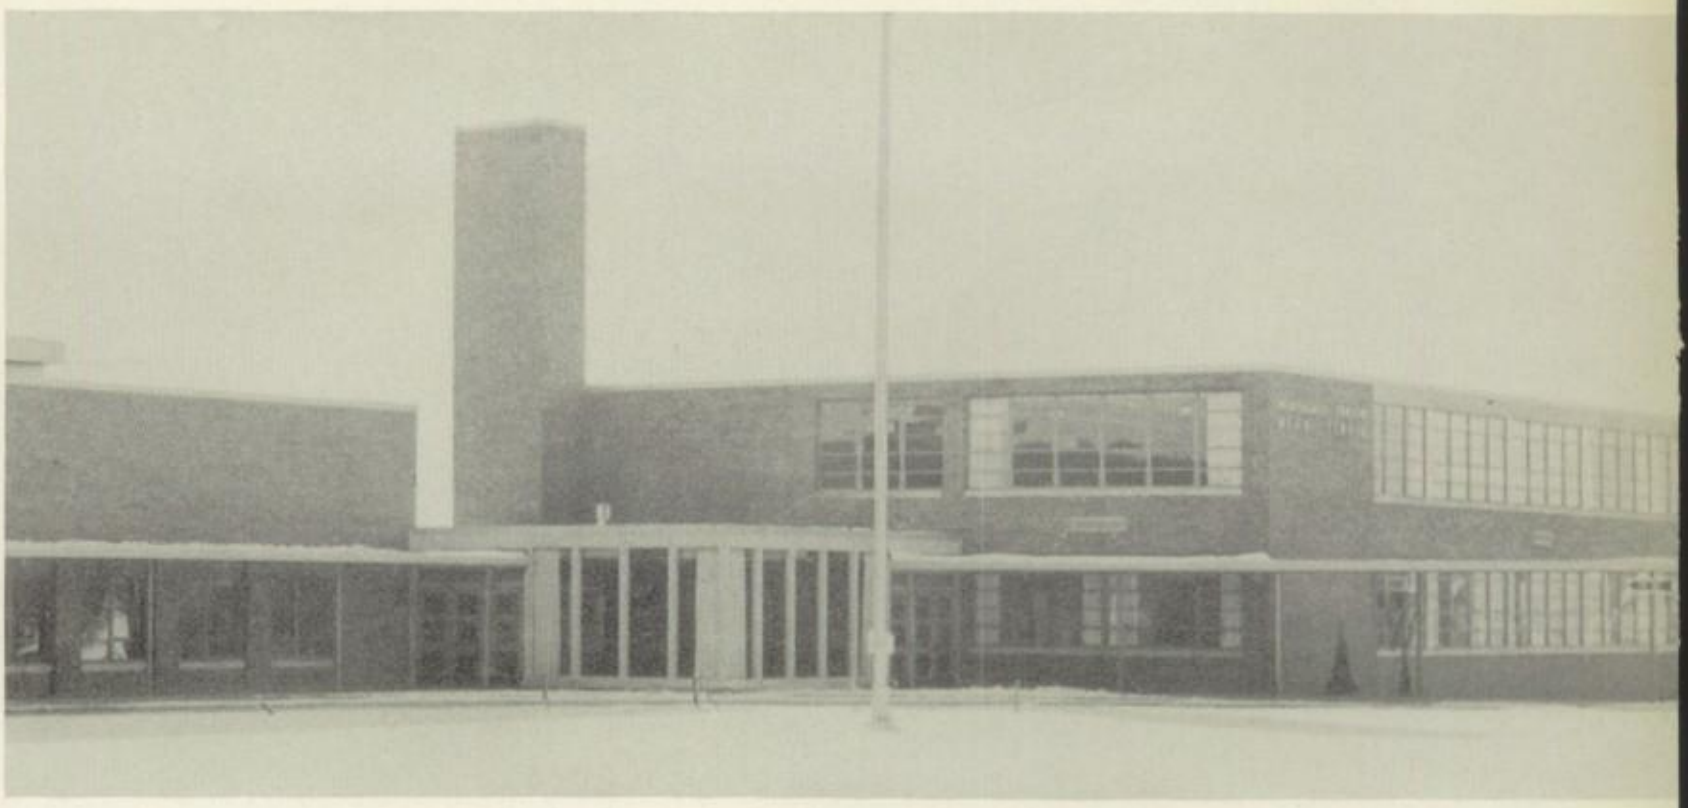
and build.

In the last 5 years millions of dollars have been spent on new buildings and equipment to keep abreast of an ever-increasing enrollment.



Northgate Junior High built in 1957

Still more are being planned for the future since surveys indicate an expanding population north of the river.

Central Administrative Building to be completed in 1958

As America has grown, we have grown with her. If we are going to meet the needs of this rapidly advancing civilization, we are going to have to keep on growing. This is the only way to keep the foundations of our country strong!

Not only the High School has expanded its facilities, but the whole system has enlarged tremendously. We have seen it grow and grow.

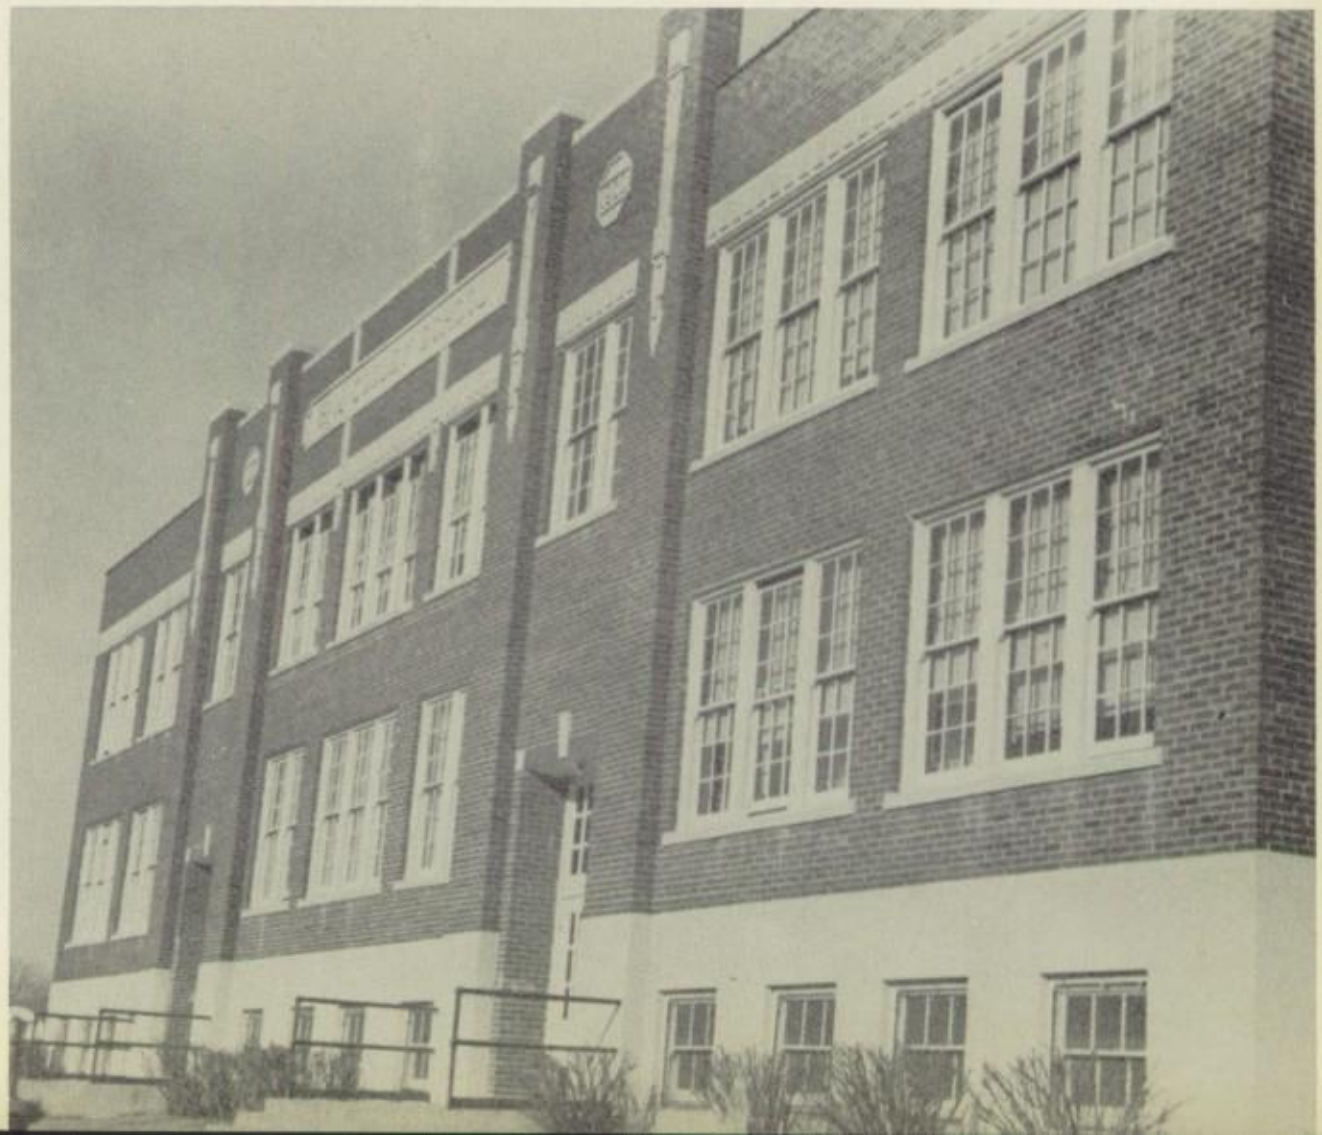
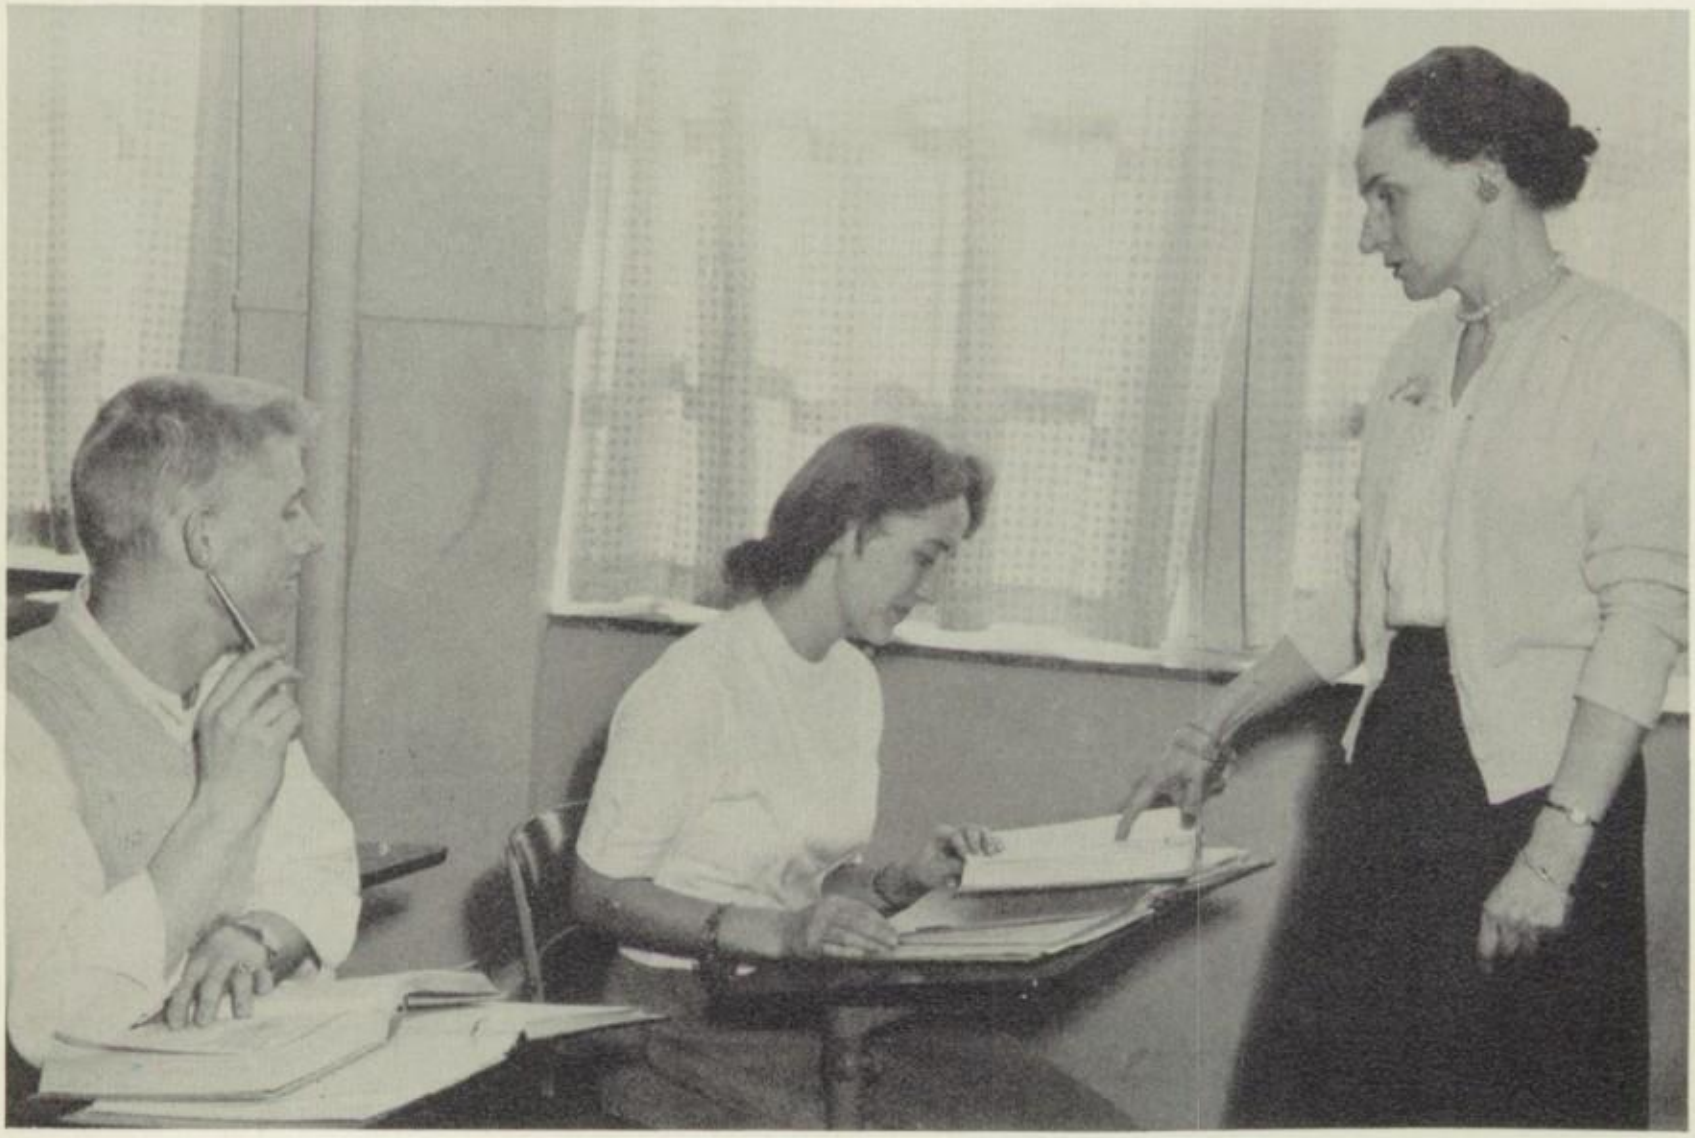
Cooley School, built in 1930



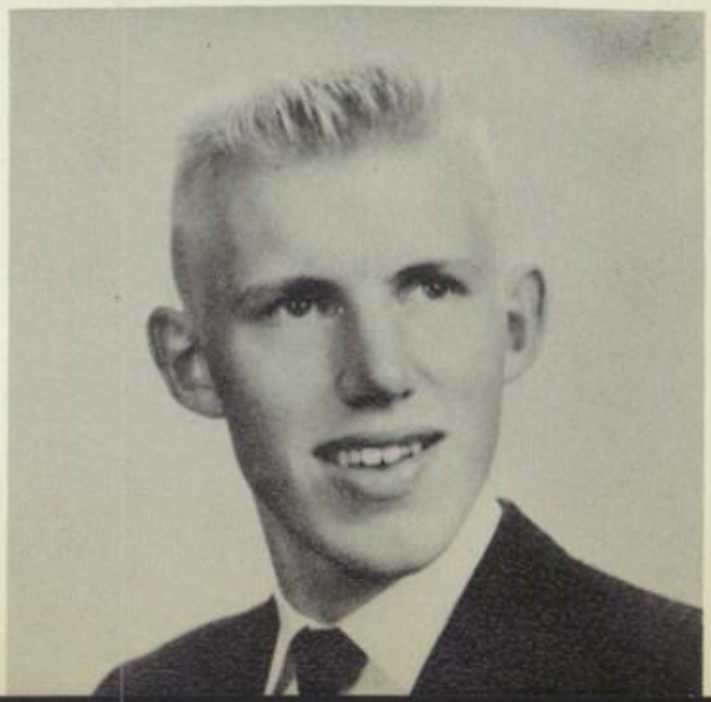
For the second year our foreign exchange program sponsored by the American Field Service has proved to be very successful. This success is ascribed to the efforts of the students, teachers, and several businessmen's clubs. This year we have two students that will go home to their countries and be ambassadors of good will for our country, thus helping to build world peace.

Irmgard Hoenger from Solothurn, Switzerland, lived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Sowder and their daughters, Kathy and Susan. Speech, physics, American history, advanced algebra, A cappella, and Purgold staff constituted a busy schedule for her. Through her many extra-curricular activities she made many friends who will long remember her and the part she played in our school.



Foreign Exchange Students

Gunnar Arthursson from Reyjavik, Iceland, stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Tucker and their son, Leslie. Gunnar found time for many outside activities, along with his classes of speech, shop, American history, English, A cappella and radio. Gunnar's eagerness to learn about our way of life will be remembered by his American friends for years to come.



Dedication

During her seventeen years at North Kansas City High School, Mrs. Grace Shields has patiently endeavored to instill in her students a thirst for good literature. In addition to her duties as a teacher, she has served our school as sponsor of Y-Teens, founder of the Poetry Club, and advisor for the Future Teachers of America. A wonderful sense of humor and a deep regard for the field of English have won for her the love and respect of students and teachers alike. To you, Mrs. Shields, the Senior Class of 1958, with the highest respect and admiration, dedicates its 1958 Purgold.

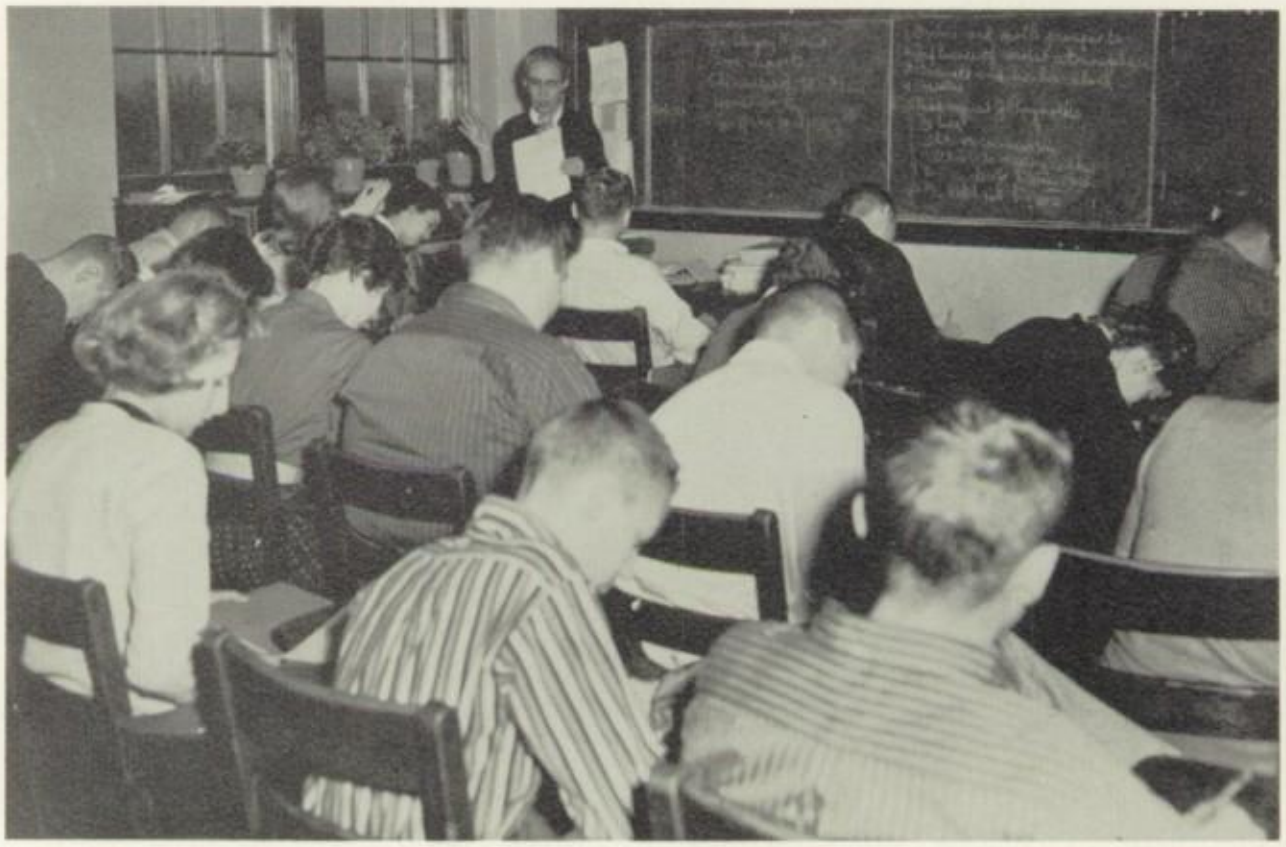
Cirriculum

English

"Write, Write, Write," seems to be the theme song of the thirteen teachers in the English department. In the required classes of freshman, sophomore, and junior English, time is divided between teaching grammar and literature. In the grammar section, work is done on theme writing, punctuation, spelling, and word usage; in the literature section, everything from "The Merchant of Venice" to Ogden Nash to "Giants in the Earth" is studied and discussed. Seniors preparing for college are offered a course in English literature. In addition to these general English courses, speech and debate offer training in constructive public speaking.

Tom Turner gives the debate class a preview of his oration.



Mrs. Shields repeats her oft-quoted lines, "You don't have to do it; you can take an F."

Miss Babcock's English class drills on Henry Hornet vocabulary words.

French

Parlez-vous? If you don't know what this means, ask one of the many students enrolled in the first and second year classes of French. By recitation in class, the study of French life, and learning thousands of complicated rules, students are learning the lives and customs, as well as the very beneficial and beautiful language, of the French. As they say in room 237, "Vive la France."

Miss Glynos and Sandy Shupik lead the class in a typical French song.

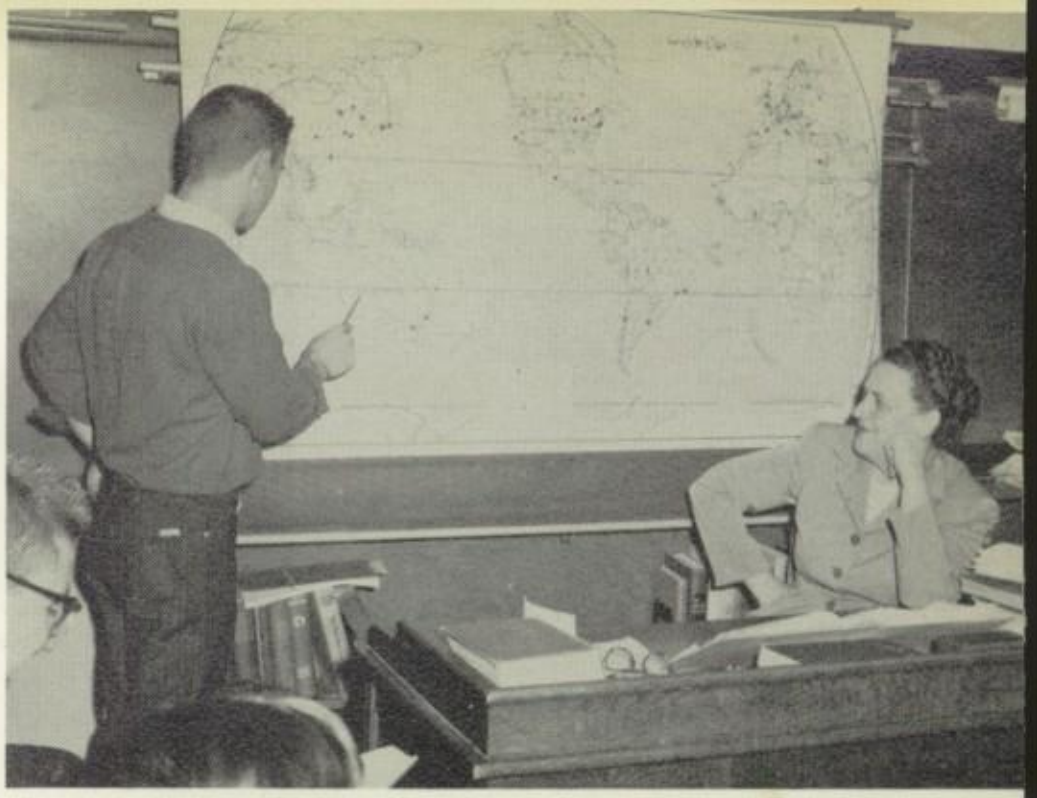
Spanish students take a trip al mercado.

Spanish

"Al sur de la frontera," or, "South of the border," is an expression often heard in the Spanish I and II classes. Because the United States is located near several Spanish-speaking countries, students often find it valuable to learn this fascinating language. Through the diligent study of vocabularies, customs, and stories, and through the enjoyment of Spanish songs and games, students succeed fairly well in acquiring a Spanish accent by the time the course is completed.

Social Science

By enrolling in classes in the social science department, students find they can develop a deeper understanding of the problems of our times and those of the past generations. Each student is required to take three courses in this department, those being citizenship, world history, and United States history. The department has eleven instructors.



Everett McClain locates the land of the kangaroos while Miss Devall looks on.

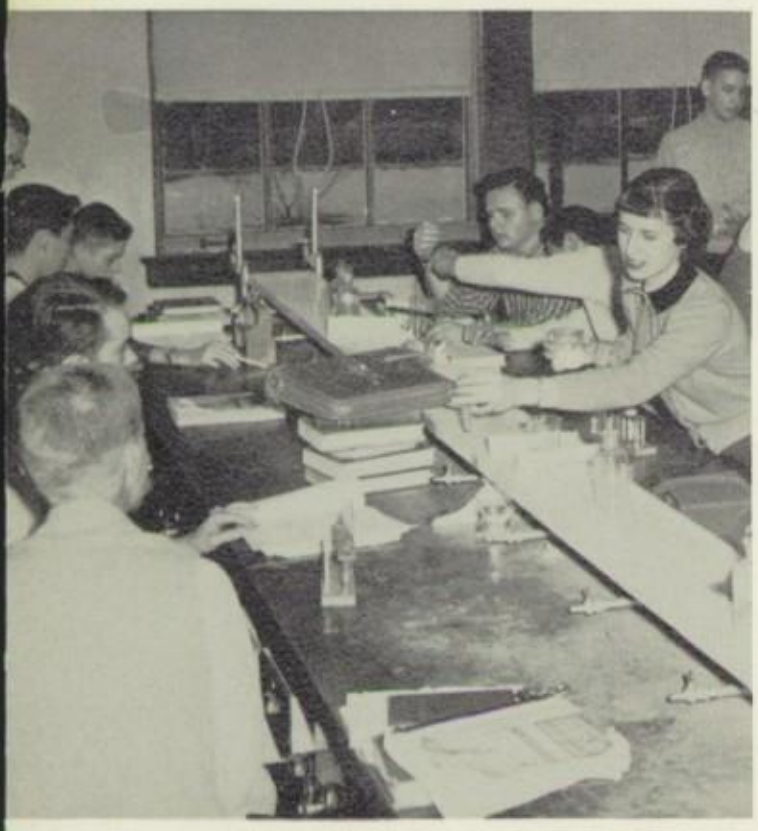
Miss Barnett explains the more difficult clauses in the U. S. Constitution.

By the looks on the studious faces, Mr. Evans must be telling a joke.

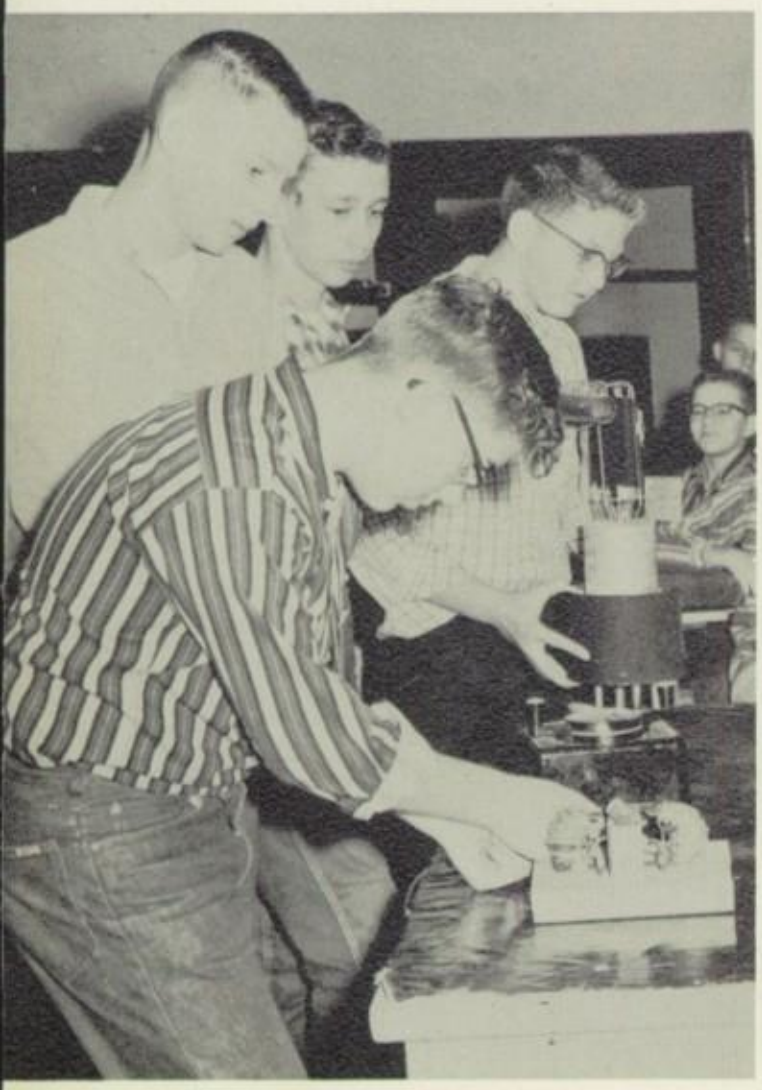
With the aid of charts, Mr. Twyman discusses modes of travel.

Science

Students enrolled in classes in the science department can be found dissecting pigs, performing experiments in energy, mixing compounds, and learning basic principles in science. Throughout the four years of high school, there are courses offered in general science, biology, chemistry, physics, and hygiene. One unit of science is required for graduation from high school; the others serve as very popular electives.



Margo Rose prepares to drown her sorrows in a beaker of H_2O.



Experiments are performed by Dagg general science students.

Mr. Arrington supervises the dissection of a pig.

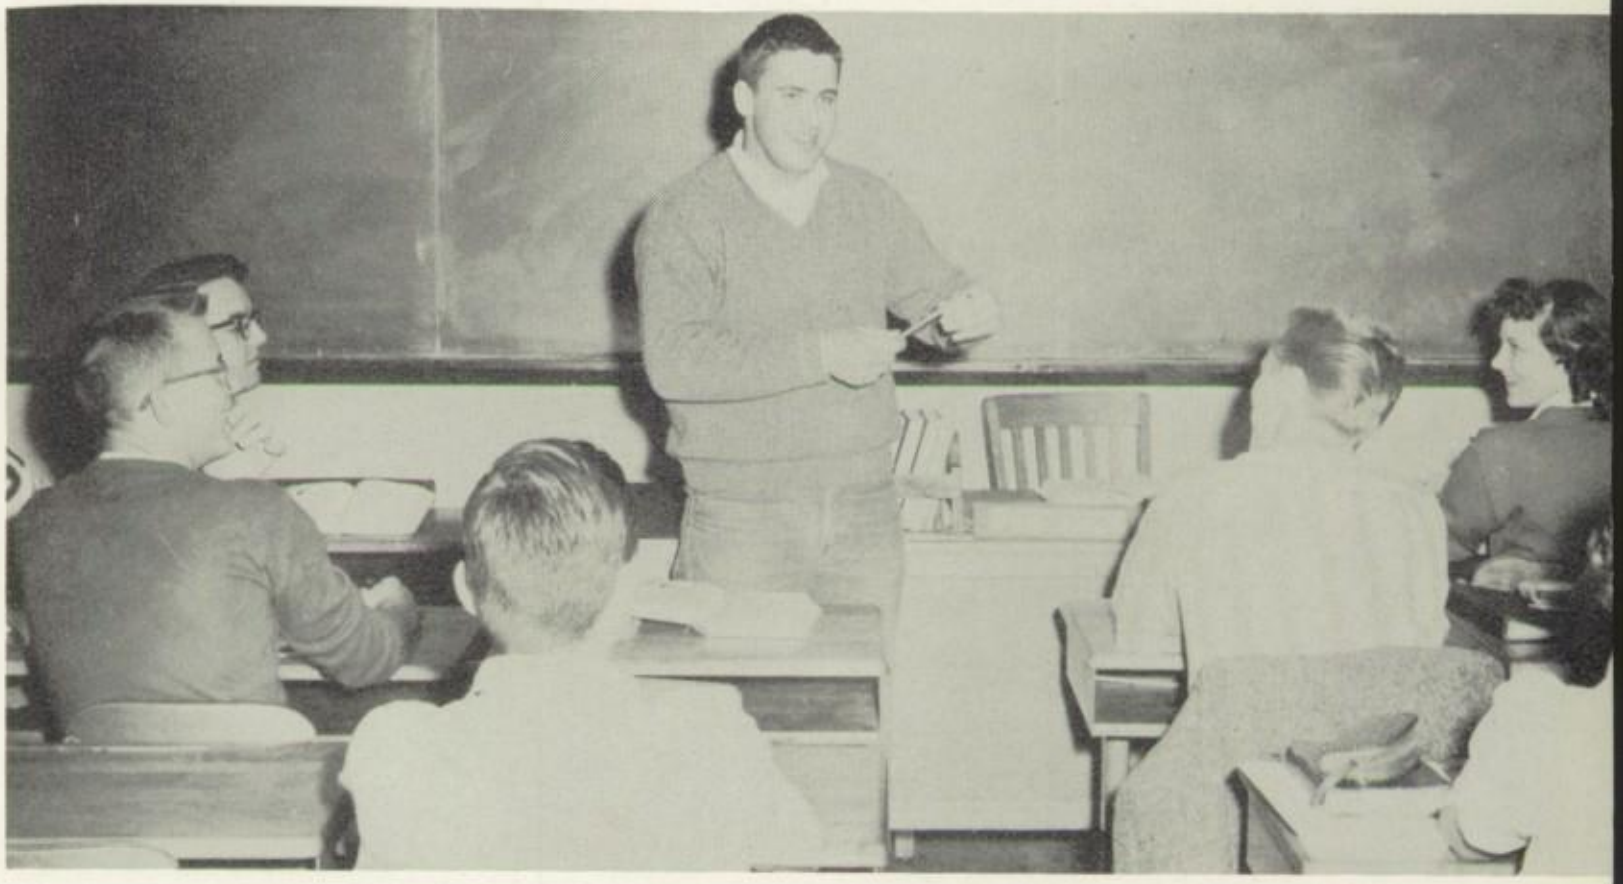
Biology students learn to type blood.

John Linder and Jerry Van Horn demonstrate how to boil water by cooling it under reduced pressure.

Business Education

Training in a variety of commercial courses is available for all students who are interested in entering the world of business. This department, largest of the electives, is staffed with thirteen experienced teachers. Most of the individual needs in business training are met by this department, as it offers courses in salesmanship, business law, and bookkeeping, in addition to the more general typing and secretarial courses.

Miss King smilingly watches first year typing students as they intently type perfect assignments.



Dick Shearer attempts to sell a lovely ballpoint pen to h is mirthful clients in salesmanship.

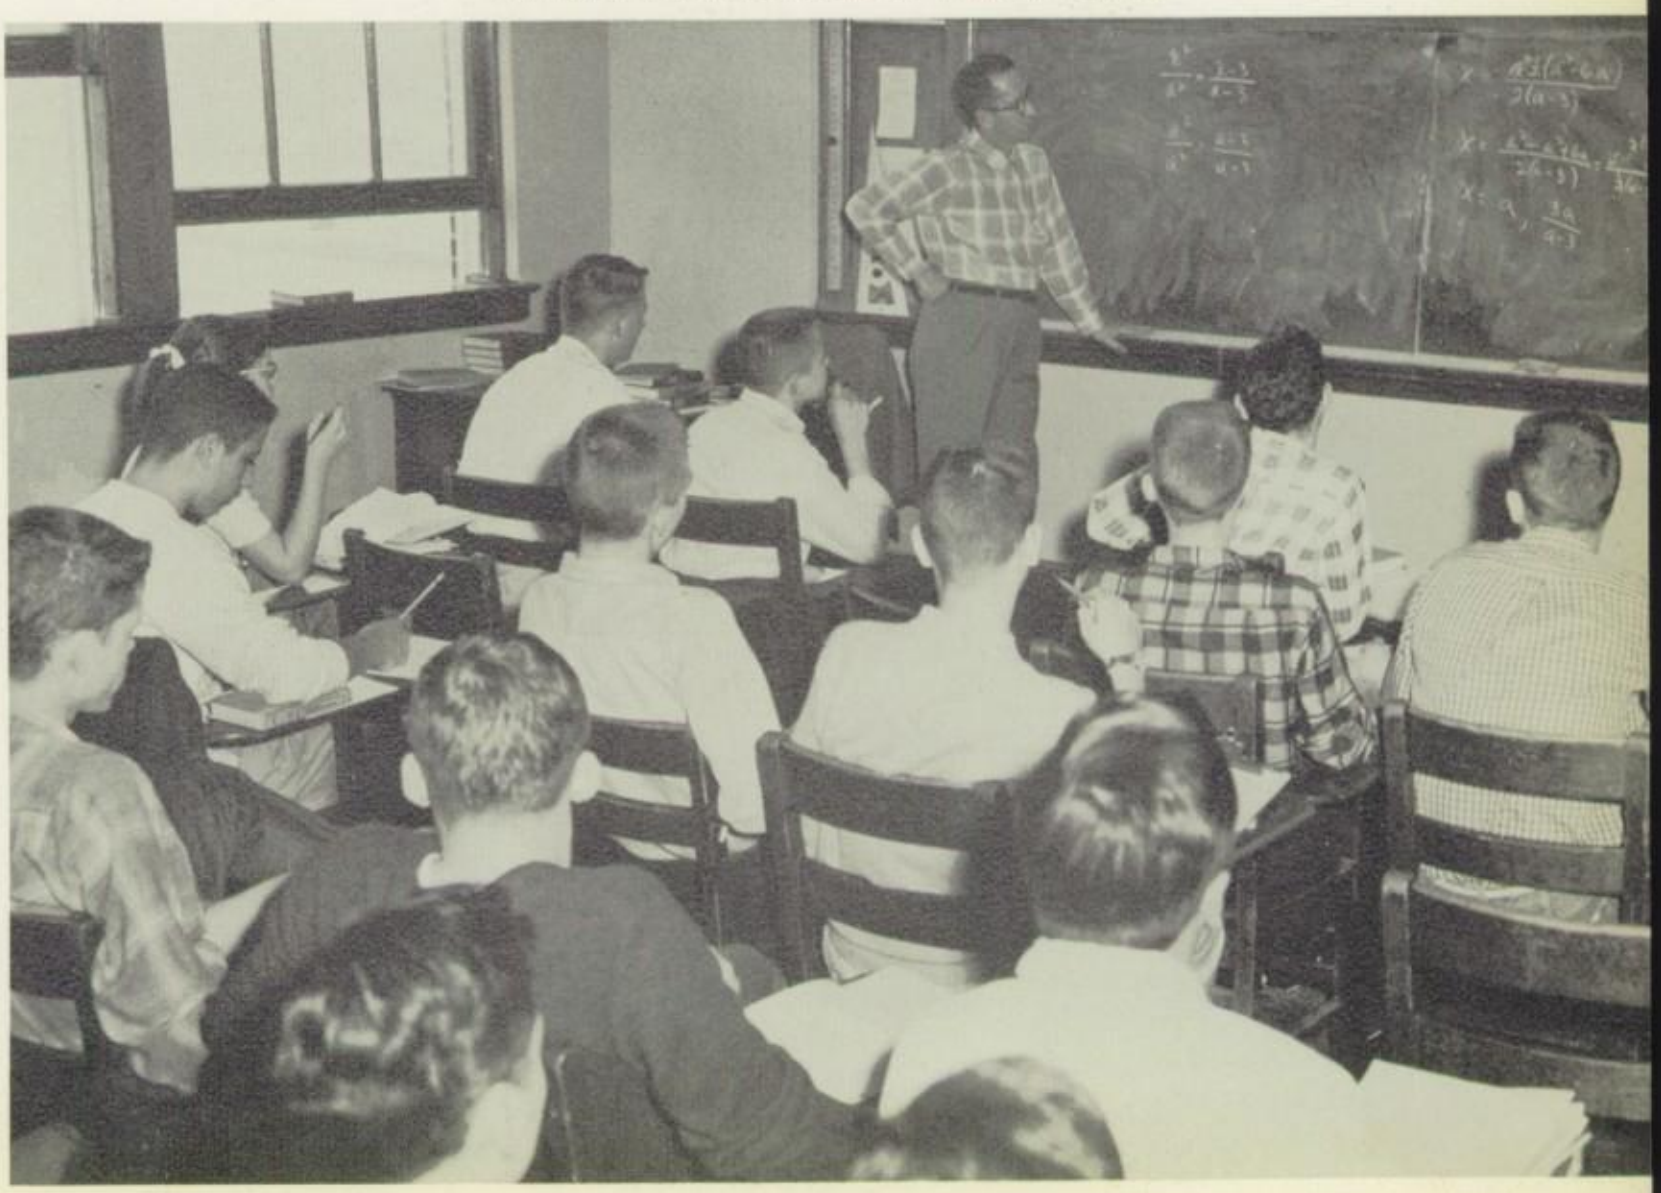
Duplicating, calculating, and dictaphone work are learned under the watchfulness of the business teachers.

Irmgard derives enjoyment from algebra while her classmates study diligently.

Math

Math, in both basic and advanced courses, is fundamental in building reasoning power, according to the eight instructors in this department. The advanced courses are especially beneficial for one who is contemplating college work in this field. Although only one unit of math is necessary for graduation, most students find it to their advantage to enroll in additional math courses.

Mr. Meyer explains principles for first year algebra.



Art

Hands and feet, portraits and landscapes, leather work and carving, oils and water-colors—these comprise only a portion of the work which is carried on in the art and crafts courses. Any student, whether he has artistic ability or not, may enroll in these classes. Through the use of a trophy case in the front hall, the entire student body is able to view the efforts of the more talented students in each of the classes. Many students also enhance their homes and the homes of friends with their finished products.

Obviously boys are very interested in art work, for it gives them a creative outlet.

Now try that with your glasses on!

Girls, too, have a thriving interest in art. Art who?

Mr. Williamson instructs the Dagg classes in their elementary study of art.

Home economics students create spring fashions.

Industrial Arts

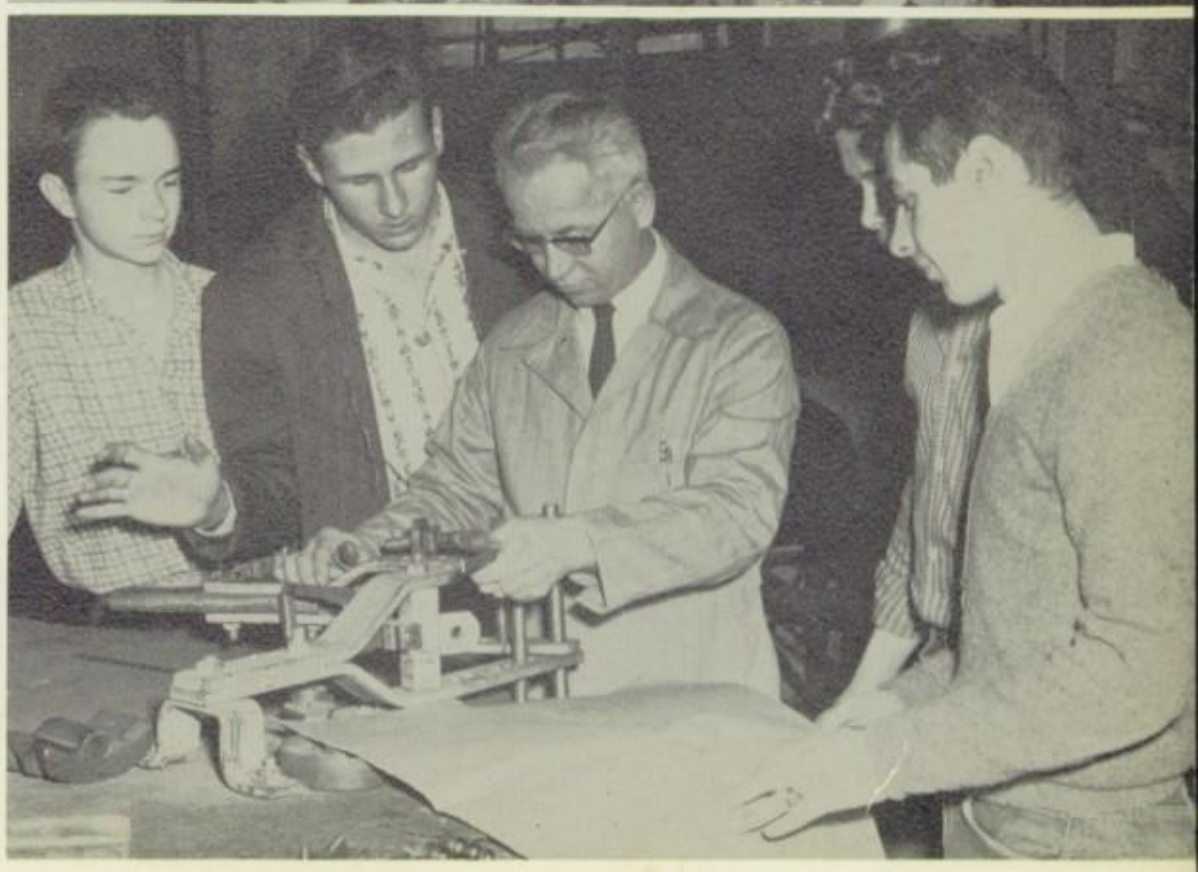
The industrial arts department enables students to gain practical knowledge in the use of tools and the development of skills, while it gives them a feeling of accomplishment. Vocational training in general shop, metal work, wood work, girls' mechanics, and electricity is offered in this department, which is staffed with three well-trained instructors.

Guess who's doing what?!!

Don't argue over the icing bowl!

Home Economics

Cooking, sewing, child care, interior decorating, and other related subjects are the objects of study in the home economics classes. Actual experiences in these subjects help prepare many young girls for careers as housewives or home economists. This department has become increasingly popular, and this year the number of girls using the facilities of this class has grown to over two hundred.

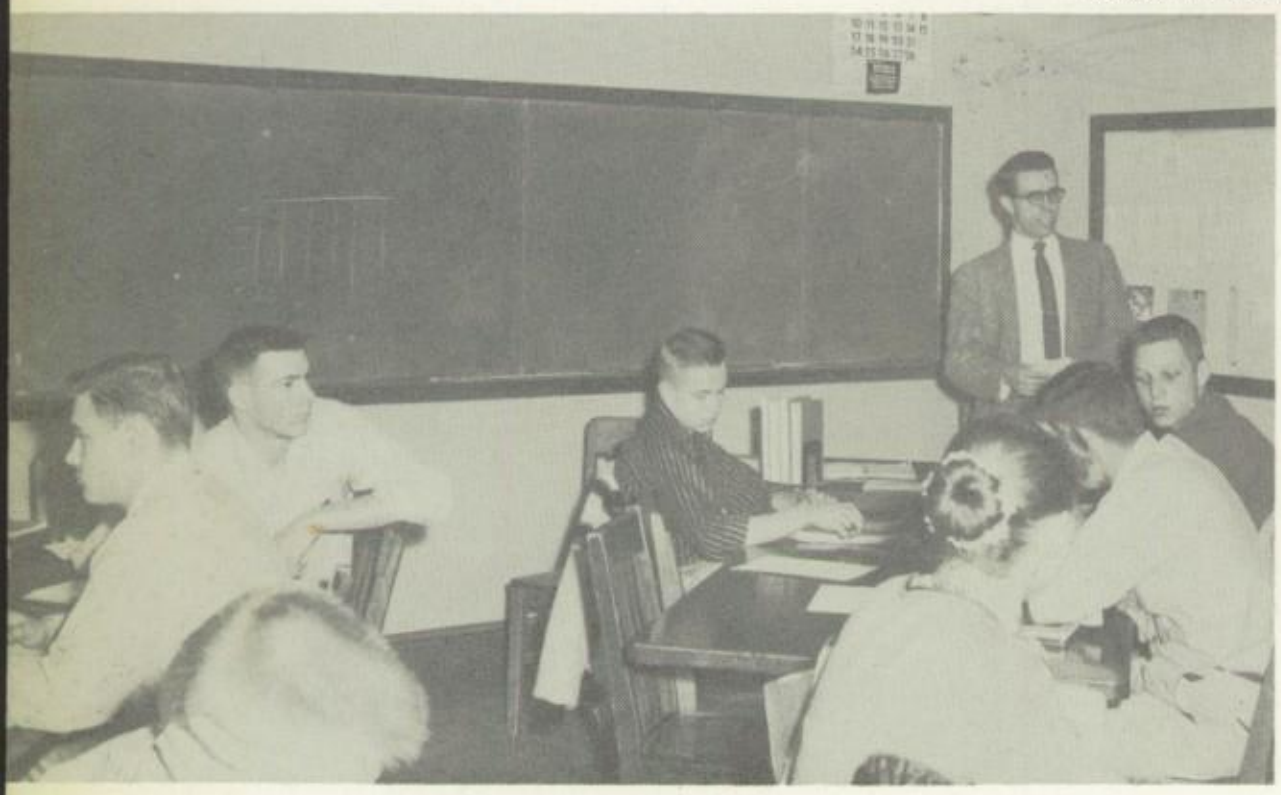


Girls and boys work intently on shop projects.

Counselling

Through the aid and advice of the well-trained counselors in the school, students are able to make the most of their four years in high school and prepare for any goal they may have after graduation. By taking advantage of the services offered by the counselors, the solution to problems is often brought to light quickly and easily; furthermore, the student is often given a better understanding of his abilities and his personal qualities.

Mr. Hoch discusses next year's schedule with one of his counselees.



C. O. E. students listen to timely advice on securing and keeping a job.

C. O. E.

The co-operative occupational education class is properly named, for it is set up through the cooperation of various employers and the school. This program allows students to work as a part of their curriculum and gives them credit for doing so. Besides these advantages, C. O. E. provides much valuable training and work experience. It could well be said that the song "Get a Job" is the theme song of this group.

Neither rain nor sleet nor 15 inches of snow put a damper on our driver's education classes.

Driver's Education

A minimum age of 15½ years is the only requirement for enrollment in the driver's education classes. Through the program offered by this course, students are taught safe and courteous driving while they receive actual practice in one of the dual-control cars. This class, greatly recommended by teachers and parents, is a very popular elective among the sophomore and junior classes.

Coach Cooper gives advice to a physical education student working on parallel bars.

Physical Education

If you would visit some of the physical education classes and witness some of the wrestling, creative dancing, rope climbing, calisthenics, archery, tennis, soccer, and volleyball, you would realize that the school is an institution for developing the body as well as the mind. In addition to these activities, students learn the rules of various sports, good health habits, and sportsmanship.

Girls in physical education study rules in health.

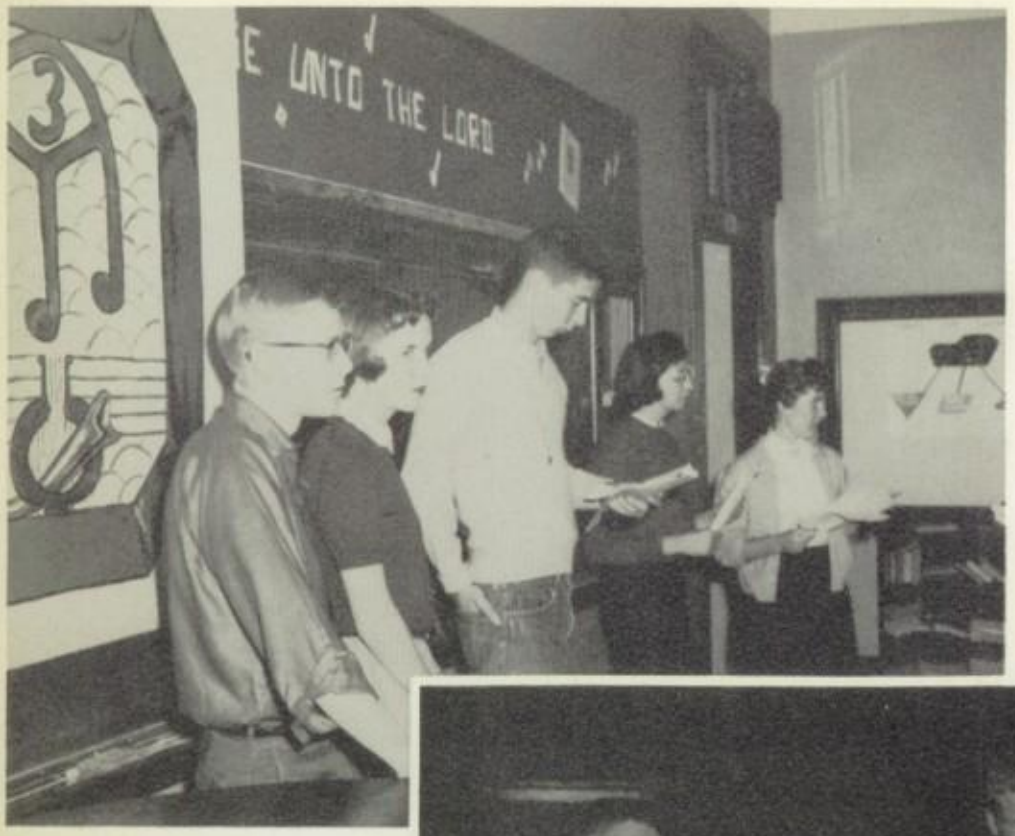
Music

Modern Music Masters

If you excel in any branch of music in high school and also manage to keep up a sufficient grade average, you will usually find yourself in this organization. It helps promote interest in instrumental and choral music, thereby encouraging solo and ensemble performance. It challenges students to maintain high standards in music education, to become better performers, and recognizes personal achievement. Sponsors are Mr. Clouse and Mr. Neuhart. Officers are Les Tucker, president; Stuart Bowers, vice-president; Judy Swindell, secretary; Kathy Sowder, treasurer; and Kay Lanto, historian.



The officers swing out the agenda.

The maestro at the piano keeps members in harmony.

Gloria Nalley does her pledge duties.

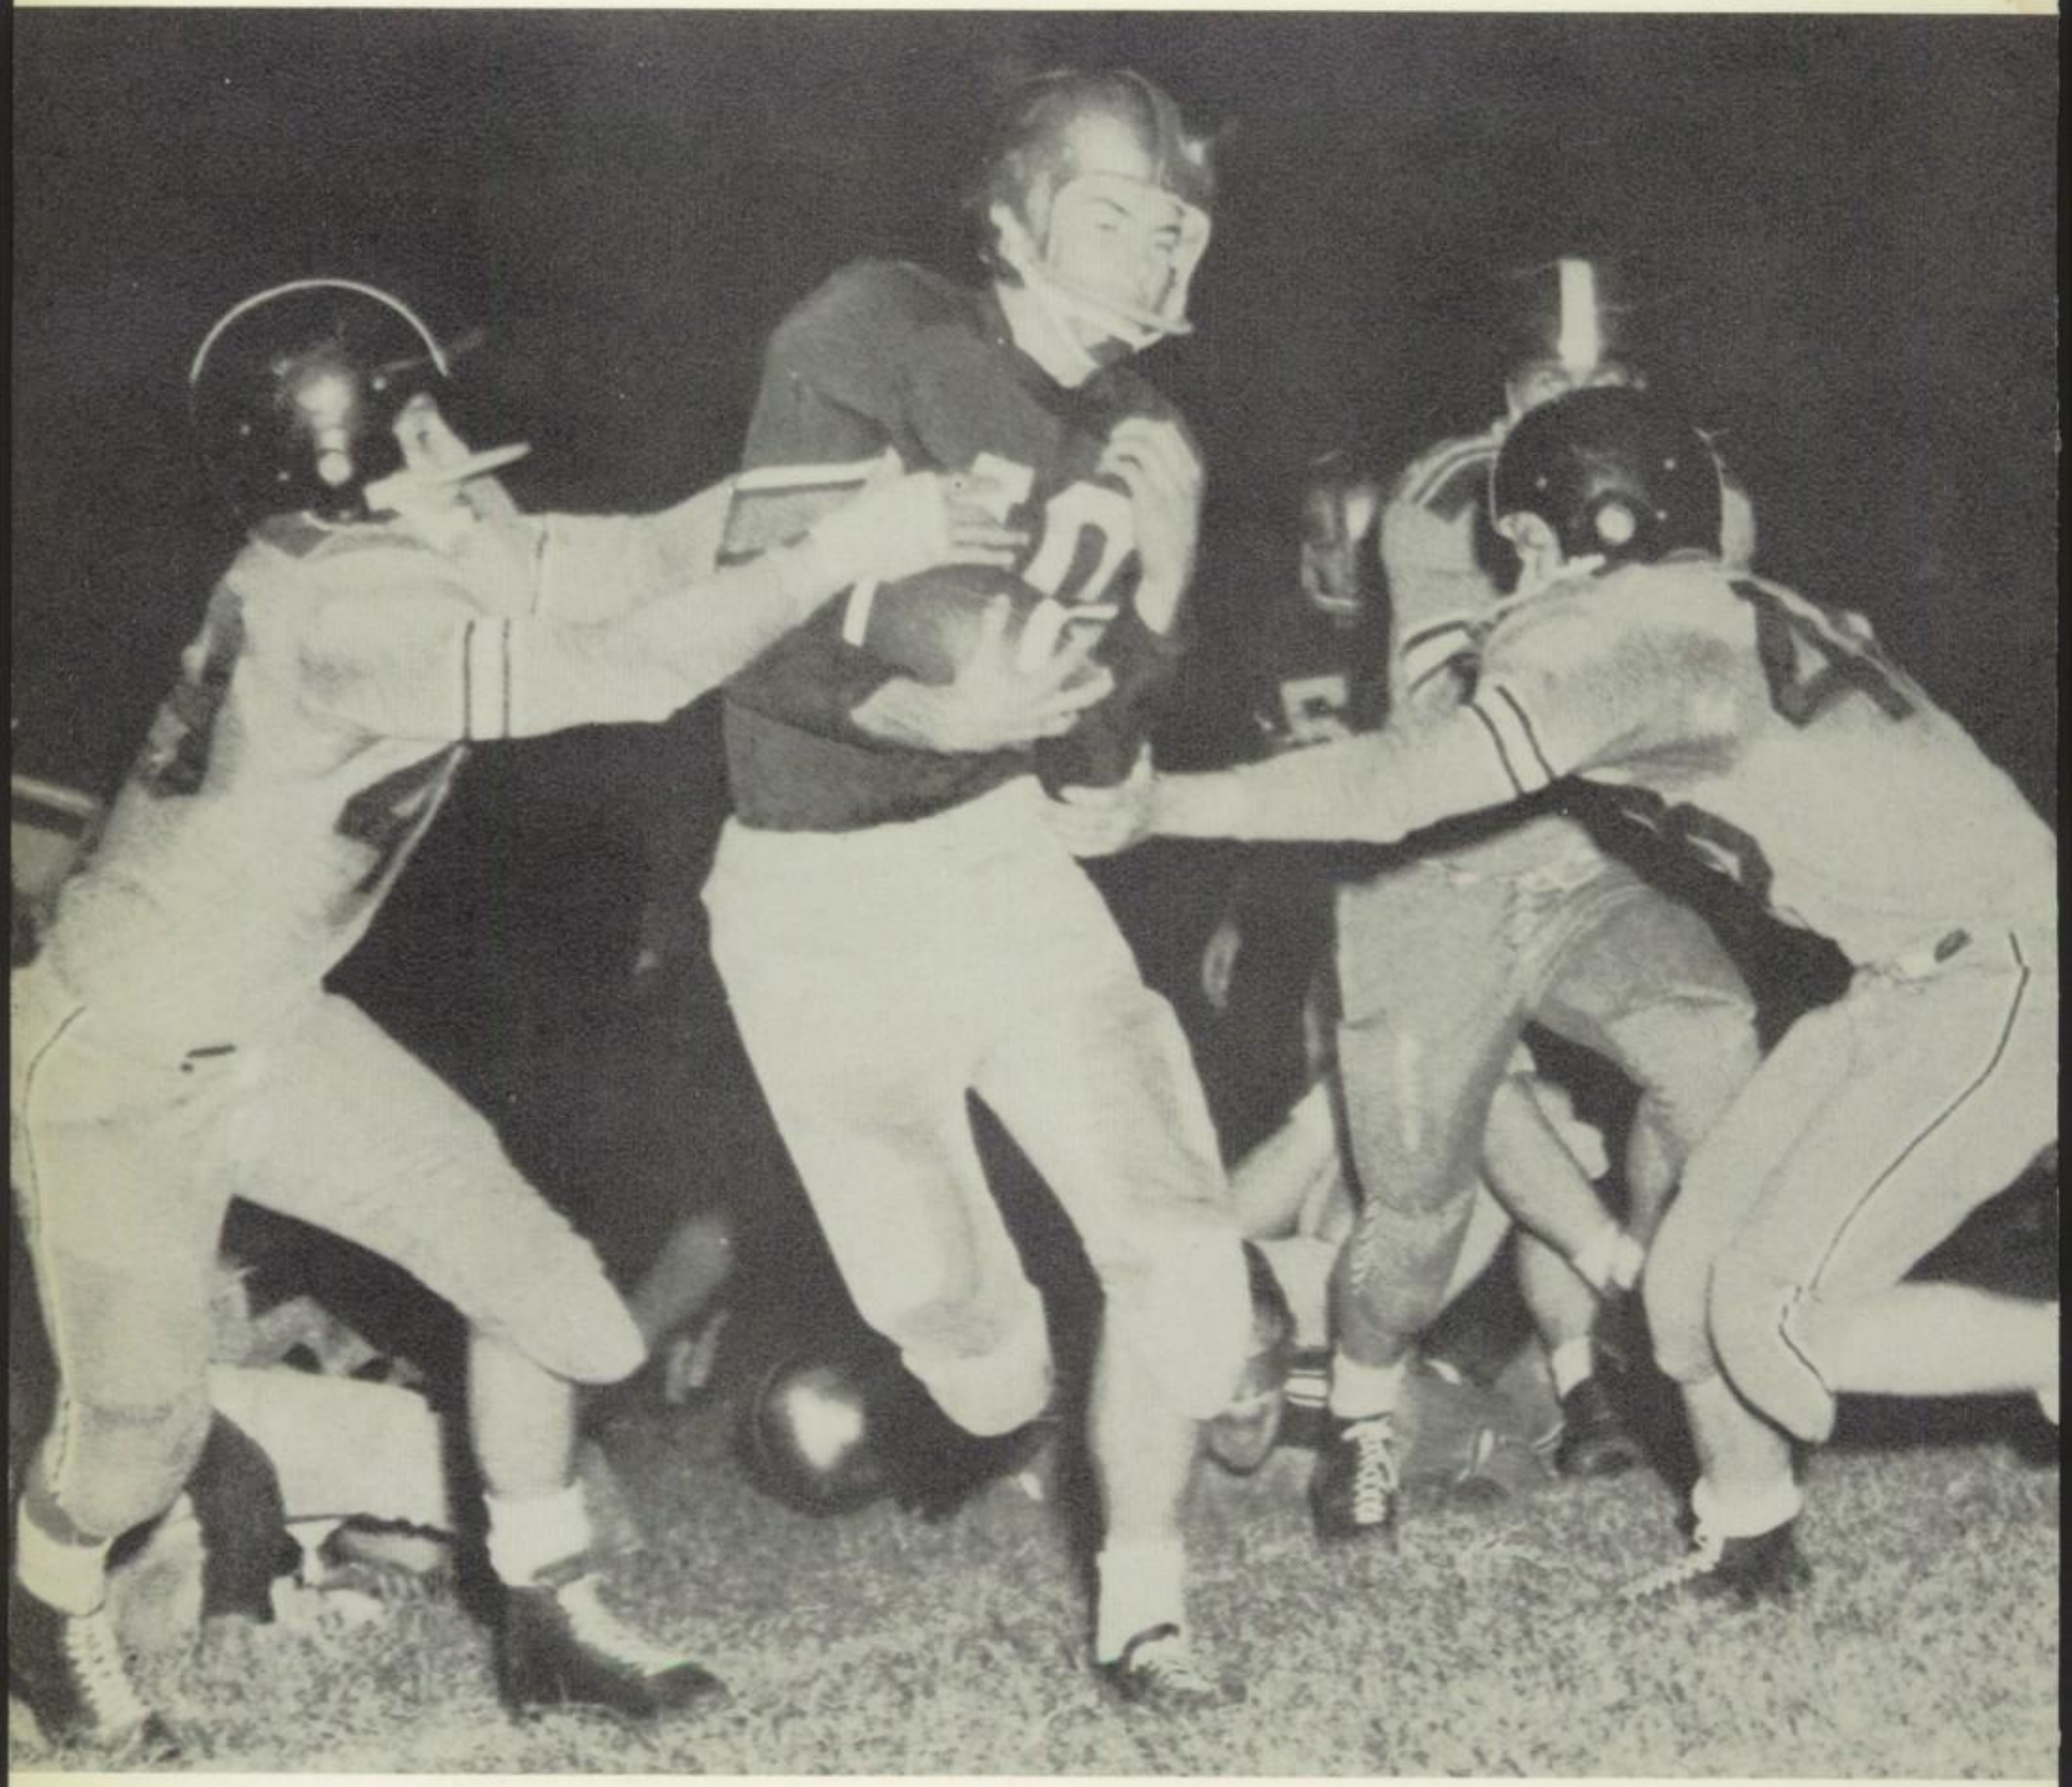
Sports

Football



Our 1957 squad was destined to be champions from the first. They would have been champions if not a game had been won. It showed in the way they worked in practice, in their general attitude toward training rules, and in their aggresive approach to competition. North Kansas City has had football players that were better than the ones on this year's aggregation, but I am sure that there have been very few teams anywhere that better understood the meaning of the word "team."

N. K. C. — 34 Southeast — 6

September 13 . . . In an exciting, hard hitting game, the N. K. C. Hornets decisively beat the Knights of Southeast by spirited team effort. N. K. C., the underdog, surprised the entire Kansas City area and showed their potential by exhibiting mid-season form both on the ground and in the air. The Hornet's air attack accounted for 147 yards and two touchdown passes to Bill Kelso. Jon Skaug and Don Henderson contributed two and one touchdowns respectively. Standouts on defense were Bill Henderson, Elvin Basham, and Roy Palmer.

N. K. C. — 26 De La Salle — 0

The first home game September 21 . . . The home crowd saw the Hornet eleven shut out a tough Cadet crew. Taking advantage of a Cadet fumble on the opening kickoff, Hornet Jon Skaug drove over for the first tally after only 8 plays. Striking twice in rapid succession on a three yard pass to Kelso in the end zone and a 39 jaunt by Henderson, the Hornets left the stunned Cadets 19-0 at the half. Early in the third period halfback John Tonge returned a Cadet punt 52 yards for the final Hornet tally.

D. when he intercepted a Sedalia pass and "bulled" his way to the one-foot line. Mike Pigler took it across on the next play. Don Henderson scored Northtown's second touchdown in the last period after a 37 yard march. Not yet satisfied, the Hornet eleven tallied on a play from Pigler to Hancock to Tonge, who sped over unhindered. Basham's toe again came through for his second conversion.

N. K. C. — 46 BENTON — 0

October 18 . . . A homecoming crowd of 4,500 saw the Hornets win no. 16 in conference play. Holding the opponents to 11 yards and gaining 265 on the ground, the Northtown crew beat Benton in every respect. Dave Mehner, sophomore halfback, took scoring honors with three touchdowns of 9, 5, and 1 yards. Homecoming At Northtown

Hey John, where's Ona?

The Hornets breathlessly awaited October 18, Homecoming Day, which started with a colorful parade through town. The fifteen candidates, with their escorts, waved at the spectators from their shiny convertibles. At the pep assembly following the parade, the seven finalists were announced to the student body.

During the half-time ceremony of the game with St. Joseph Benton, the exciting moment arrived when Miss Bobbie Montgomery was crowned Homecoming Queen for 1957. A dance in honor of the queen and her attendants celebrated the victory and concluded the day.

Golly, it's past my bedtime.

Gee, there's Mommy!

Turn off the bubble machine.

Gee, everyone's looking at us.

Hail, hail, the gang's all here!

Don't cry on my shoulder.

Out of the way, peasants, the Queen is coming!

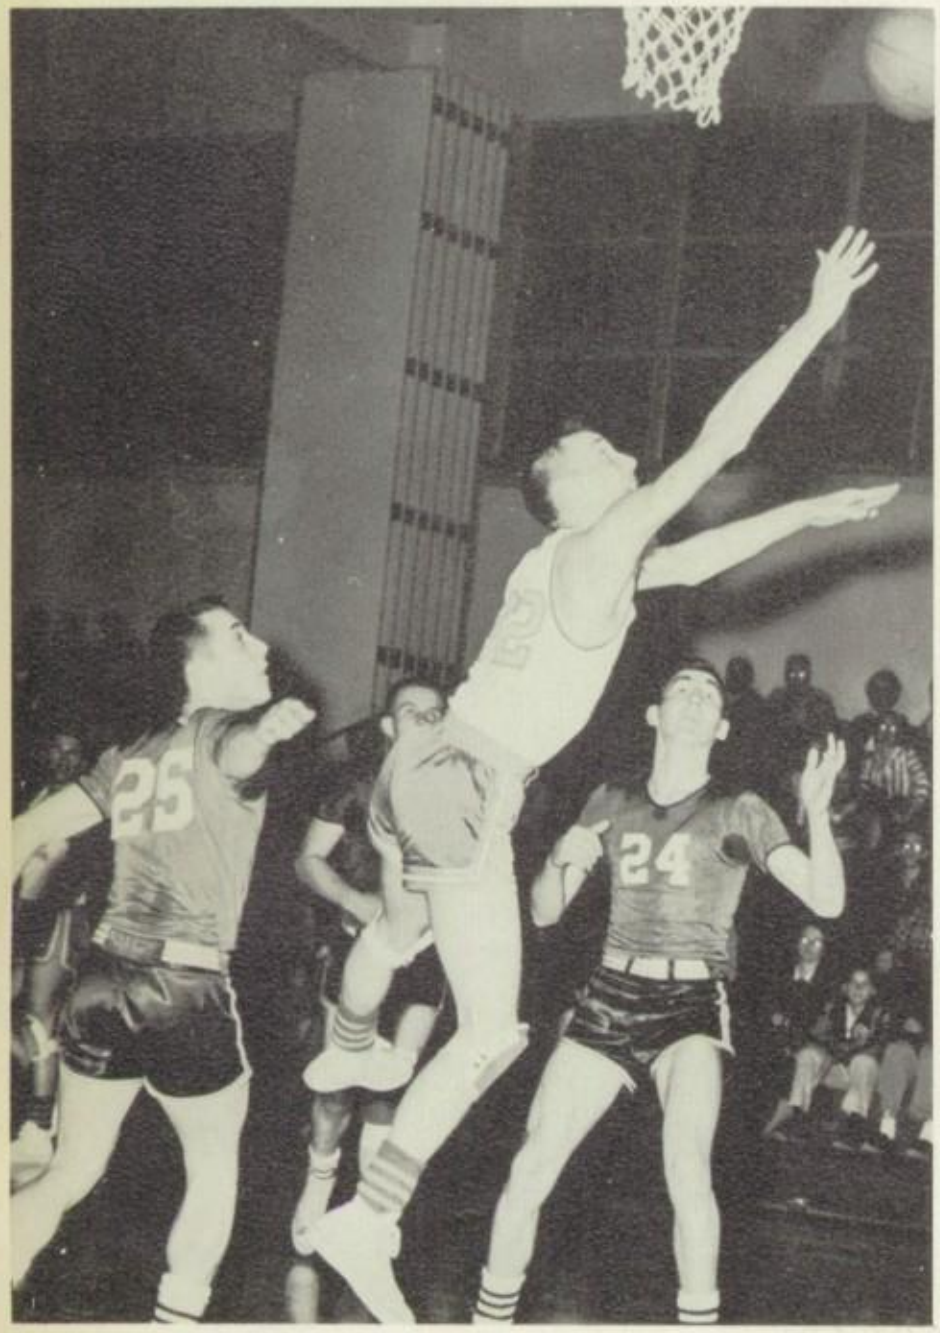
Chrisman Regionals

N. K. C. 55 Manual 51

Feb. 28 — Northtown's crew staved off a last quarter rally by the Manual crew to gain the decision for the first round. The Hornets set a fast pace, hitting their first six shots and ending the half with over 50% from the field. Troy McConnell and Bill Kaley vied for scoring honors with 10 points each. This win gave N. K. C. its seventh consecutive regional victory.



N. K. C. 47 East 40

East threw a scare into N. K. C. after the Hornets had doubled the score in the first half. The Bears gained steadily in the third quarter, and it was nip and tuck until late in the final period when Kelso and McConnell found the range to tally up four points apiece for Northtown.

N. K. C. 34 Northeast 36

Northeast's Vikings went into the finals with a 4 win, 14 loss season record to upset the Hornet crew. Viking defense along with 17 of 27 free throws provided the winning factor. Northtown collected most of their points on long shots and Bill Kelso tied it up 30 seconds until a 20 foot shot by Northeast sent them to St. Louis.

Golf

The N. K. C. golf team compiled another fine season in spite of the fact only two lettermen were back from last year's team. The team was led by Freddie Hartman and Raymond Ager, both seniors. Jim Aikin and Pat Peelle were the new members of the team that helped the Hornets to victory. The team placed second in the Missouri State qualifying at Swope Park. This enabled them to participate in the state tournament at St. Louis, where they finished eighth. The squad annexed its 5th straight Pony Express Conference crown at St. Joseph, Missouri, on April 25. The team was coached by Mr. C. C. Cooper and Mr. Paul Galatas.
